GC 470 Environmental Ethics (and Literacy)

This course will provide students with the opportunity to read and discuss some of the classic environmental literature written by famous environmental and conservation authors such as Leopold, Olson, Muir and Thoreau. Articles written by many of today's contemporary authors will also be read and discussed. In addition, this course will examine ethical issues surrounding some of the most hotly debated issues of today including climate change, biodiversity, habitat fragmentation and species extinction.

“When we see land as a community to which we belong, we may begin to use it with love and respect” — Aldo Leopold

“Flashes of insight or reality are sunbursts of the mind” — Sigurd Olson

“When you tug on a single thing in nature you find it attached to the entire universe.”
— John Muir
